FIFTY-SIXTH YEAR NO. 32

CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY JULY 14, 1933

PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR

NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

COLUMBUS.—Thomas M. Gregory, former state senator of Cincinnati, was chosen chairman of the state industrial commission July 5, when the board reorganized because of the appointment by Governor George White of J. W. Beall of Lima, Democrat, for a term of six years to succeed Wellington T. Leonard, Republican of Mansfield. Leonard served six years on the commission, and was chairman when he retired. The third member of the commission is L. E. Nysewander of Dayton, the only Republican member on the board.

Due to recent approval of ballot forms by Secretary of State George S. Myers, boards of elections throughout the state are busy preparing for primary elections August 8th to nominate party candidates for municipal offices. There are several counties in the state in which no primaries will be held because they are not required in municipalities with less than 2,000 population, while in many other municipalities with a larger population than 2,000 charter provisions make it unnecessary to conduct primaries under the general election laws of the state.

Superintendent of Insurance Charles T. Warner and his staff have been considering the past few days whether modification of the department regulations and supplementary orders previously issued under Senate Bill 243, passed March 8, 1933, which prohibited life insurance companies making loans and paying cash surrender values to policy holders except in extreme cases. The insurance superintendent expected to issue an order liberalizing the one of March 10, thus permitting much more freedom in obtaining funds from domestic and foreign companies. This action, if taken, will follow that of the state superintendents of insurance at their recent national convention in Chicago and similar rulings by a number of state departments.

Heads of the vocational education section of the State Department of Education are hopeful that they will be able to follow the same full program next school year that was observed the past year. However, not until it is more definitely known how much money will be available for this phase of school work can a program be completed. According to E. L. Housch, state supervisor of vocational education, the 1933-34 budget was reduced 15 percent by the House finance committee. Included in last year's program which the department hopes to continue next year were the following: Research at Akron University on training programs to aid in selecting apprentices in the industrial field and development of material courses of study; analyses and outlines of courses of study in ten specific trades and industries as prepared by the University of Toledo; district conferences of vocational teachers; functioning of the state joint apprentice commission for the plumbing and heating industries.

State Representative Clarence H. Burk of New London, Democrat, and chairman of the House finance committee, was appointed state Director of Finance by Governor George White last Thursday to succeed Howard L. Bevis, who was recently appointed to the Supreme Court.

The semi-annual report of the Secretary of State for the period from January 1 to June 30, 1933, shows an increase of $79,615.35 in fees of all kinds over the last six months of 1932. The total for the first six months of this year was $150,416.41, and for the period from July 1 to December 31, 1932, $130,801.06. The sum of $11,488.60 was received as fees for new domestic corporations and $33,507.81 for foreign corporations. Miscellaneous fees amounted to $420.50; receipts from the sale of bound volumes containing opinions of the attorney general, $756; from the sale of Ohio laws, $37.50, and from registration of lobbyists, $420. The business of the Secretary of State's office picked up rapidly after February 1. June was the best month of all, when the total receipts amounted to $31,387.80. Foreign corporations that qualified to transact business in Ohio during the six-month period numbered 119, and 2,167 domestic corporations were granted charters in the same time.

The state legislature met Monday in brief session, when the presiding officers signed the bills that were passed in the last hours of the regular session. Stating that investigation by members of the state tax commission indicated that the special tax bills passed by the general assembly would not provide sufficient funds for school and relief purposes, Governor White announced that he would call a special session in the fall.

Arguments from both sides were presented to the court but no decision is expected for at least a week.

FARM BUREAU COMES TO LIFE ONCE MORE

After enjoying a Rip Van Winkle snooze the past six months while the legislature was in session and seeing some relief from taxation, given slow death, the Trustees of the State Farm Bureau went on record Tuesday asking Gov. White to call a special session of the legislature for a constitutional limitation of twelve mills.

The Ohio Taxpayers' League not being able to get support from outsiders, including the Farm Bureau, to pass the bill for a ten mill limitation, now have petitions in circulation initiating a ten mill limitation that will reduce taxes on real estate one-third.

Carter N. Abel Will Double Calcium Plant

The Ohio Calcium Company, Pedro, O., will double its plant, according to a news report in the Irontron Tribune. Carter N. Abel, formerly of Cedarville, is head of the company. Contracts have been let to the Meehan Steel Products Company for the steel structure.

The Tribune says: "Unknown to most people, probably, an infant industry has been developing near Pedro for the past 18 months and is now a lusty infant.

More than a year ago Carter N. Abel launched a lime operation there that includes a special processing of the native lime to prepare it for special use in the steel industry. The three-kiln plant employs about 35 men in the mining of the cement and operation of the kilns, which are operated 24 hours per day. The capacity of the plant is now being doubled. The interesting feature of the affair, however, is the fact that through the last 18 months of depression the plant was shut down for three days and this was caused not by lack of business but by a tie-up in transportation facilities. Here is an industrial leader (Mr. Abel is making his home temporarily at Lawrence) who came to the county unsolicited, requested no bonus, rent guarantee or assistance in stock selling or other aid, and quietly established an industry that has succeeded where several that had to be bought and imported failed. And our tip is that before long 300 men will be employed in the lime operations there."

Senator Fess Says Repeal Is Certain

S. D. Fess stirred up a hornet's nest in Ohio among leading drys Monday when he issued a statement that repeal of the eighteenth amendment was certain and that Ohio will join in the repeal. He says he is still "bone dry" and hopes to be reelected next year to "help draft laws for disposition of liquor and return of the saloon."

Leaders of the Ohio Anti Saloon League immediately flew into a rage, Supt. S. P. McNaught saying: "Senator Fess is wrong in his prediction about repeal in Ohio. Ohio drys have the votes to defeat repeal if they go to the polls and we are going to get them to the polls."

Reports are the drys will seek some other candidate they can support, while one or more wets will enter for the Republican nomination.

Gov. White and Ex-Gov. Vic Donahey are expected to contest for the Democratic nomination, the latter to have the support of the drys.

CEDARVILLE DEFEATS PAINTERSVILLE TEAM

Batteries: Cedarville—Blosser and Collins; Paintersville—Maynard and L. Bone.

Mystery Illness Fatal To Xenian

Three physicians and a corps of volunteers rested Sunday night after spending 27 hours trying to keep alive a spark of life in the body of Charles W. Conklin, 28, Xenia, whose hard fought race with death ended with the grim reaper taking his inevitable toll.

For 27 long hours the medical men and assistants labored over Conklin's body, endeavoring, by administering artificial respiration, to beat back the fatal onslaught of a mysterious paralytic condition that had caused his respiratory organs to cease functioning.

A 2 a. m. Sunday, one of the doctors applied the stethoscope and then shook his head—the long battle had ended.

Drs. T. F. Myler, R. R. McClellan and H. C. Schick and several other volunteers were completely exhausted from the arduous task of administering artificial respiration but they paused to discuss the unusual case.

It was generally believed that Conklin was a victim of some kind of inflammation of the brain, although Coroner R. L. Haines, who viewed the man's body at the McClellan Hospital, said that a bacterial infection was responsible for the death.

The coroner revealed that he had been informed Conklin, a carpenter, had been in an altercation on July 4, but said there were no bruises or visible injuries that could have caused death.

He said he did not believe Conklin had been injured in the fight in any manner that would contribute to his death and declared he contemplated no further action.

Conklin collapsed last Wednesday and was brought to the hospital suffering from complete paralysis of the body. At 11 p. m. Friday his breathing stopped and the task of forcing oxygen into his lungs by artificial means was started.

Besides his parents, the victim is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Vernon Jones, of near Xenia, and Mrs. Fred Fugate, of Paintersville.

Funeral services for the were conducted Tuesday at 2:30 p. m. at the Eleazer M. P. Church, with burial in Woodland Cemetery.

Man Kills Self On Wife's Grave

Frank Strong, 80, formerly of Jamestown committed suicide when he fired a revolver shot through his head in the Jamestown Cemetery, Monday night about 10:30 o'clock. The body found across the grave of his wife, Mrs. Julia Strong and sister, Miss Angie Strong.

The caretaker notified Coroner R. L. Haines, who returned a verdict of suicide. A note was found on a postcard saying he had nothing to live for.

The Strong family left Jamestown about thirty years ago, Mr. Strong having since resided in a number of places, the past winter being spent in Florida. Mr. C. N. Stuckey of this place stated that he talked with Strong while in Orlando last March. He came north to Cincinnati and resided with a sister, Miss Emma Strong, until his visit to Jamestown on Sunday. The surviving member is the sister in Cincinnati.

NO CHARGE IS PLACED AGAINST COLLEGE STUDENT

Theodore A. Holmes, 20, former Antioch College student, was placed under arrest at his home in Winsted, Conn., by the sheriff of Clark county in connection with the mysterious death of Mrs. Nora Coffey, 24, Springfield, whose body was found in the little Miami River, near Goes several weeks ago.

According to the officers Holmes made no effort to conceal anything and revealed how the woman had been shot by accident, in a tussle for a revolver that had been carried in the pocket of the automobile door.

Holmes claims he met the woman near mid-night on the street in Springfield. Although he did not know her she asked him to take her home and he borrowed a machine from John McGee, Pitches.

It is said the boy admitted he had been drinking and had several drinks with the woman. He also had some money in his possession and the argument for control of the gun was due to the fact that the woman is said to have demanded money. The gun was a German automatic easily fired and the discharge ended the face under the left eye. During Holmes' excitement he is said to have thrown the body in the river.

Officials in Clark and Greene county have disagreed over the question as to the exact place where the shooting took place. There is some doubt of the boy's sworn confession on the part of some officials. Neither side feels they have enough evidence to convict the boy and he has been given his release Wednesday.

Prosecutor Marcus McCallister gives out the following statement: "Holmes, in confessing his part in the unfortunate affair, stated that Nora Coffey held him up by the use of a revolver belonging to him, which she found in the side pocket of the car he was driving. At that time he was carrying considerable money in the form of Travelers Checks. Fearful of being shot, he attempted to get the gun from her possession. In the confusion that resulted, she was accidentally shot by the revolver which she held in her own hand."

"Holmes swears that these statements are true. No evidence to the contrary has been found.

"Holmes comes from a very fine family, and he himself has a good record.

"In view of the boy's sworn statement, the arresting officer, Detective Robert Donnelly does not feel justified in placing a charge against him in this county. The Sheriff of Greene County does not feel justified in placing a charge against Holmes, in view of the circumstances. Holmes' sworn statement being the only means of a solution to the unfortunate incident, must, at this time, be accepted as true. The investigation so far discloses that the shooting was purely accidental. No Grand Jury at this time would be warranted in returning an indictment. Certainly no jury, under the present circumstances, would convict Holmes. Justice does not demand that a charge be filed by the officers of either county against this youth, if the officers are satisfied with his sworn statement.

"It is apparent to all who have been interested in the case that there is need for a legislative enactment in this State, against the sale of revolvers or other dangerous instrumentalities to any person, other than a law-enforcing officer.

"The law does not demand nor does justice require the prosecution of this youth at this time for the sake of publicity, with the ultimate result that under the present state of affairs the youth would be acquitted.

"Certainly in view of the economic conditions, I would be derelict in my duty if I did not consider the huge expenditure involved in the prosecution of such a case, when I realize that justice would not be served.

"The Grand Jury of this county, at its next session, will have the opportunity to investigate the entire matter. I believe that nothing could be fairer than the consideration of the citizens of this county and the welfare of this youth, who is only twenty years of age."

NEW WARDS TO ENTER

Completion of a new dormitory which raised capacity of the institution to 780, and enactment of appropriation legislation were cited by the trustees as permitting the increased admission of orphans of war dead.

The trustees also announced they will ask a federal grant of $200,000 to build a new grade school building.

AN EUROPEAN TRIP AT HOME

A large number of travelers in this country seek a trip to Europe each summer. While the number is large there is no doubt a very small fraction of the population from any one community represented abroad. This year the European trip can be taken with a trip of a few hundred miles to Chicago to the Century of Progress Exposition.

By those who have visited the fair it is said you can see more of Europe in certain lines than if you actually made the trip abroad. Many of the foreign countries have gone to great expense to lay a sample of their exhibits before the whole world, for that is what the Chicago show really is.

Chicago has one of the most noted Art Institutes to be found in America. In years past we have never visited the second city of the land without a visit to Field Museum where you can find many new and novel things from all parts of the world. As an education treat for young folks we know of no other place where one, two or three days can be spent as profitable.

It has been said that you cannot visit Chicago and the exhibition this year without knowing America better. The whole of American civilization is embodied from the beginning to the present day. It is the product of art, science and education folded up for your inspection like the pages of a book. It is good to see delegations of young folks being sent to the Exposition, an educational treat never to be forgotten. The continued increased attendance is proof that America wants to keep ahead in the advancement of civilization.

RADIO RULE

The radio programs of the United States flood our neighbor, Canada. To a smaller extent, the voice of Canada flows by radio into the United States. The United States, which tries to cope with broadcasting stations which establish themselves over the line in Mexico and then reach the gullible on our side of the border. When Kansas' goat gland radio doctor could no longer ply his trade by American radio, he operated from the Mexican side of the line.

The troubles on this continent over the international play of the radio are nothing to those besetting the smaller countries of Europe. There is nothing but international courtesy to keep the radio of the soviet from shouting its propaganda to all the peoples of Europe. There has been complaint on this point. The most critical present instance of international trouble over the use of radio concerns the relations of Germany and Austria. Germany has gone Nazi. The Nazis are determined to bring Austria into their camp. Austria, with Italy and the French bloc supporting her, resists this effort. Austria now makes official complaint that the Nazi government, broadcasting from Munich down near the Austrian border, is appealing to Austrians against their own government. A protest has been made to the international broadcasting union, Europe's radio "league of nations" established to keep the radio peace.

If the union does not act to prevent the objectionable broadcasting, the Austrians say they will meet the Munich broadcast with a blockade of their own. All this requires is to put an Austrian station to broadcasting on the same wave length as the Munich station. Any American radio fan, victim of the many conflicts of wave length among America's myriad broadcasting stations, can understand how effective that will be. It is war.

The incident illustrates the impetus to internationalism which the radio has produced. Nations can assert their sovereignty as to tariffs and armaments and get away with it. It takes generations for the evil effects of those forms of uncompromising nationalism to appear. When they do appear, it is difficult to make the peoples understand that these are the sources of their trouble. With radio the necessity of international co-operation is instantly obvious to all. The nation that insists of running its radio to suit itself finds that with other nations in reprisal doing the same thing, it has destroyed its own radio with the rest. Compromises, with a just distribution of radio channels among the nations and with courtesy rules to prevent such use of the radio as is charged to the Nazis by Austria, become a necessity of national self preservation. This fact is so easily seen that radio internationalism is established with little difficulty. The facts are the same as to armaments and tariffs; but here the facts are hard to see; so armaments and tariffs, with the common ruin which they wreak, go on.

WHAT OF TODAY AND THE FUTURE?

All lines of business, retail, wholesale and manufacturing are under going the greatest change in the history of the world. America has always been recognized for her foresight in economic conditions but with the federal and state governments gradually taking over the regulation of business, including farming, we face not only new unsolved problems but new conditions.

This country has been so torn with economic strife as a result of the mismanagement of government the past four years that people generally have given up and are willing that our government undertake most anything.

All lines of business generally will try to meet government requirements. It is going to be a bitter pill to be told what you can and cannot do, yet if a reasonable amount of prosperity can be created, all this will be overlooked. You can have a year in and year out with increased prices. You can have a scale of retail prices for the same articles from coast to coast, but if public sentiment resents such a move, the whole thing will collapse.

We have never given up the economic law of control by supply and demand and under most conditions even governments cannot set this law aside. If things work out well under the Recovery Act, all well and good. If they don't, we hesitate to predict what will follow. We are willing to make our share of sacrifice to give the experiment a trial. Others should do the same.

A promotion was never won by carelessness.

Dollar wheat in the local market sounds like old times.

New York City believes in "blood money." Blood for sale by transfusion is held to be taxable.

If the government should put a tax on the yardage of bathing suits, public bathing probably would be prohibited.

Don't worry about high priced flour. We are not so far from corn bread time and winter flap-jacks.

If you do not like the extra tax on white bread you can eat rye with rye quoted in the market at $1.05 a bushel. There is no tax on rye flour.

The road to recovery for Democratic politicians is now assured. Each can be assured of at least one mile to patrol at the expense of the taxpayers.

Our state constitution must be made of rubber. Ten years ago dry courts bent it their way; today the same old rubber sheet is bent for the wets.

Kidnappings seem to keep ahead of the prosperity boom. It used to be liquor racketeers but now a price of $50,000 to half a million dollars is demanded before a captive will be released.

DEBORAH

LESSON TEXT—Judges 4, 5. GOLDEN TEXT—God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble. Psalm 46:1.

PRIMARY TOPIC—God Helping Deborah.

JUNIOR TOPIC—A Woman Courageous.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—An Inspiring Leader.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Leadership in Emergencies.

In order to teach this lesson Intel ligently, it is necessary that the teacher have a grasp of the book of Judges from which it is taken. In chapter 2:3-19 is given a synopsis of the book.

Observe:

a. The sin of the people (vv. 6-13).

b. God's judgment for their sin (vv. 14, 15).

c. Repentance of the people (3:9).

d. God's deliverance at the hands of the Judges (2:10-19).

A repetition of sin, oppression by the enemy, repentance on the part of the people, and God's deliverance, is the story of the book of Judges.

The book covers the period from the conquest of Canaan and death of Joshua to the Judgeship of Deborah.

While Joshua and the elders of his generation lived the people in some measure remained faithful to God, but the very next generation went into apostasy.

1. The National Emergency (vv. 1-3).

a. Lapse into idolatry (v. 1). Ehad was not only a righteous but a strong ruler. As soon as he was dead, the people turned away from God.

2. The bondage of the people (v. 2). The Lord abandoned them to be oppressed by Jabin, king of Canaan. For twenty long years they were under the hand of this king who had nine hundred chariots of iron.

3. The people cried unto God (v. 3). Affliction brought them to their senses.

4. The Judgeship of Deborah (vv. 4-10).

The great national emergency which confronted the nation was met by a woman named Deborah. Her name means "Bee." As suggested by another, she answered her name by her industry, sagacity, and public usefulness.

This woman was called to the Judgeship of the nation because there seems to have been no man capable.

1. The place where she judged is real (v. 5). It was under a palm tree, showing that she held an open air court for the administration of justice.

2. Her method (vv. 6-10).

a. Her summons to Barak (vv. 6, 7). Barak means "lightning." Deborah, being a prophetess, was able to select a man whose gifts would enable him to rally the forces needed to gain the victory over the formidable foe. Judging from his accomplishments, Barak was true to his name, for with lightning dispatch he wrought deliverance. It was really God calling Barak through Deborah. She gave definite instruction as to the number of men and strategy to be employed, assuring him that God would deliver Sisera, the captain of Jabin's army, into his hand.

b. Barak's reply (v. 8). He expressed an unwillingness to go unless Deborah would go with him. This unwillingness should not be considered as weakness, for the presence of the prophetess would inspire courage.

Barak rebuked (vv. 9, 10). Deborah yielded to his request, but made it plain to him that it would detract from his honor as a conqueror, "for the Lord shall sell Sisera into the hand of a woman."

III. The Defeat of Jabin's Army (vv. 11-16).

Sisera, the captain, gathered a mighty army and went forth, confident of victory over the ill-equipped, undisciplined army of Barak, but he made one sad mistake. He did not consider that it was the Lord's battle (v. 15). At the psychological moment Deborah gave the signal to charge, assuring Barak that the Lord had gone before and would give the victory (v. 14). Through supernatural interposition the enemy became panic-stricken (5:30).

IV. Sisera Killed by a Woman (vv. 17-24).

In his flight he took refuge in Jael's tent. In the guise of friendship, she committed a most heinous murder after inviting him into her dwelling.

V. The Song of Deborah and Barak (ch. 5).

This song was composed and sung in celebration of the marvelous victory which God had wrought. Deborah set forth in the most definite way that the secret of victory was the help of God. Praise is given to those who responded to the cry, and scorn is heaped up on those who remained behind.

All Barriers Down

All his life long Christ had been revealing his heart, through the narrow rift of deeds, like some slender, lance window; but in his death all the barriers are thrown down, and the brightness blazes out upon men.—Alexander MacLaren.

Scars of Sin

"Transomed, humped, restored, forgiven—thank God I can say that, but the scars of sin always keep me humble." —Bishop Linton

The license fever evidently is an epidemic this year. As long as there is a chance to collect a tax in a new way it will be with us. Of course you cannot have a license without some one issuing same. If you sell beer you must get the legal permit upon payment of the proper sum. If you want to sell milk you must have a license and the milk must come from a licensed or tested cow. It will be only a few days until you cannot get a shave or a haircut without patronizing a licensed barbershop with a licensed barber for no other kind will be permitted to open without being subject to a heavy fine. Even the ladies will not be able to get their hair fingerwaved unless it is done by a licensed cosmetologist who has a regular license of place of business. The traveling artist and the front parlor institutions in homes have been legislated out of existence. Under the federal recovery act all kinds of business must have licenses as well as manufacturers. Even the most obscure printing and publishing plant will be included. Farmers that want to share in the new wheat, cotton, corn and hog price setup must have the necessary papers from Uncle Sam.

In the law regulating the barbers and barbershops with beauty parlors each barber must pass an examination both as to qualifications and physical examination. Barbershops must be in what is termed regular business houses and meet certain sanitary standards as to the place of business and equipment. The old barberpole that has had its place the past century is still permitted but the law also requires that each place have a suitable sign "Barbershop." When we stop to think business is only being placed on par with the professions for physicians, lawyers, veterinarians, ministers and school teachers have for years had to have what is equal to a license granted by the state or a delegated authority. And then the marriage license as in years past. We came near overlooking the mortician, he too has had to have a license. He always comes last in the order of things after everyone else has had their day.

How many ever stop to think that a banana is not a fruit but a tropical vegetable. When the housewife says to the husband, "John, bring home some fruit," and he returns with bananas, he satisfies the wife who knows the tropical vegetable as fruit. Most people recognize the pineapple as fruit but it has little similarity to anything in the fruit line of the north. It is a tropical plant also that grows by cultivation about like cabbage, other than the leaves are of a barbed nature. The banana industry is largely controlled by American capital but South America furnishes us with main supply. If you go south you pay about the same price for bananas as you do at the Canadian line. This is due to the fact that the banana business is virtually controlled by one company.

The former Houston land comprising about 4,800 acres in Madison county and Crites land Pickaway co., owned by H. M. Crites and sold under foreclosure action to the holder of the mortgage, the Prudential Insurance Co., has been sold to the Proctor interests in Cincinnati. The same interests own several hundred acres in Ross township, this county. The Proctor interests now own several thousand acres of land alone in Ohio located in different sections of the state. The idea is mass production farming under one management.

If this idea should become widespread over the nation it would not present an encouraging future for the individual farmer. The ultimate purpose is to produce not only grain but dairy products and pork in large quantities and thus be able to sell direct without the middleman. It is said such farm corporations now purchase feeds and farm machinery direct, a thing the individual farmer cannot do.

From all reports we gather F. O. Harbison holds the record for wheat yield in this section this season. The average from the crop on his land east of town was 40 bushels per acre. It was known as fallow land and had no crop on it during last summer. It was worked a number of times during the summer with a disc harrow and twice with a spiked-tooth harrow just before seeding. One hundred and seventy-five pounds of fertilizer was used along with two bushel of seed wheat to the acre. Mr. Harbison is experimenting with another piece of ground west of town that has been sown to soy beans. These will be turned under this fall for fertilizer and wheat sown.

The early argument for the return of beer was to get the tax for state and local government. The first legislation carried such a tax but the state needed more funds and the last legislature during the closing week of the session added what is known as a "2 cent cap tax," or two cents for each bottle of beer. Now we find the brewers are appealing to Governor White to veto the bill in as much as the brewers cannot absorb the tax and it will have to be passed to the consumer. After all probably a still higher tax might not be a bad thing.

When the beer bill was passed beside the state commission a list of inspectors were provided to enforce the law. When the bill was passed to legalize race horse gambling there was a commission named with inspectors. Of course all members of these commissions and inspectors are to draw salaries but the depression must have hit each for we understand the beer inspectors and gambling inspectors could not draw their salaries last month as the income from license fees and gambling fees were not enough to take care of the monthly salary list.

Mrs. Ida B. Wise, Des Moines, Iowa, is the new president of the National W. C. T. U. She says she will be a Carrie Nation type of leader if necessary and that her party affiliation will be with the "Prohibition party, when there is one." There have been many political parties in this country in the past fifty years but only two have been dominant, the Republican and Democratic parties. The Prohibition party has existed in a more or less dormant state since 1872 never being able to make inroads into either of the old parties. Every so many years we hear about the formation of a new party but the time has not yet arrived when either of the old parties were so split that a new organization could gain any strength. The Progressive party lasted one campaign and then just long enough to defeat a Republican nominee. Those who follow political trends claim that we cannot expect a new party of any power unless the two major parties disintegrate and then we may expect a liberal party and a conservative party. Economic conditions will come nearer wrecking the two major parties than will prohibition.

Senator S. D. Fees gave out a double-barreled statement Monday that should please both wets and dries. He says he believes the eighteenth amendment will be repealed and that he hoped to continue his fight against the return of the saloon. This evidently brings to the mind of the average reader another statement issued more than four years ago that prohibition was a "noble experiment." The Senator also says that he expects to be a candidate for re-election.

Ohio property owners failed to get what they want through the legislature in a reduction of taxes on real estate. The Ohio Taxpayers' League with headquarters in Columbus started petitions Monday seeking signatures of 265,000 electors in the state initiating an amendment to the constitution that would limit the tax rate on real estate to ten mills, instead of fifteen as at present. The amendment will be voted on next November if the required number of signatures are secured. Such a reduction will no doubt be welcomed by property owners and no trouble is anticipated in getting enough names. Such a cut will greatly reduce income in all taxing districts but the legislature will be forced to redistribute present income or provide a new tax from sources not now touched.

It probably is a good thing for the taxpayers of Greene and Clark county that officials could not agree as to the fine points about the death of a woman, whose body had been found in the Miami river in this county. Which ever county would draw the trial would probably be out four or five thousand dollars before it was ended. But there is another feature to this case beside the mandate of the law. The woman was married and not divorced. She did not live with her husband and there must have been very good reasons. When a woman gets to be a midnight street-walker, husband and a home have no place in her life. The husband displayed no interest in the death of his wife nor in demanding legal redress against anyone. The youth has paid a high price for his folly which should be a good example to other young men to shun such society. Officially the case has not been ignored and officials in either county cannot be criticized. Expenditure of a great sum of money when eye witnesses are not available would only bring on an equal in a mock trial. Prosecutor McCallister is to be commended for his stand as well as the other officials. We have had men in this world and plenty of them but does anyone know of anything worse than a bad woman?

The decision of the Ohio Supreme Court that permits the wets to proceed with the election machinery for ratification of the repeal of the 18th amendment hits the dries squarely between the eyes. It has proved to the dries one thing, that the same club they used on the wets some years ago has now been used by the wets on the dries. There is bound to be some sore heads as a result. Senator Fees evidently was right when he predicted some days ago that Ohio will vote for repeal. Dries should not overlook the fact that some wonderful things were predicted for Ohio when the initiative and referendum were placed in the constitution. Like classification of property for taxation, it looked like a month or a year in paradise. By adopting either or both nothing ever could go wrong again.

Under the court decision the dries must sit on the blister and like it. The same court told the taxpayers that signed the referendum petitions on the highway patrol, "it's none of your business, pay the bill and like it."

The solid and dry south broke into the wet column this week when Oklahoma gave a majority for legalized beer by direct vote of the people in that state. Many claims have been made that the dries could control the south and thus stop the onward wet movement that seems to be sweeping everything before it. Oklahoma is the thirty-fifth state to legalize beer. By that state has become of the Ku Klux Klan, that rantankerous and boisterous hooded order that expected some day to make Atlanta, Ga., the capital of the nation, using prohibition as the stepping stone?

Supreme Court
Decides For Wets

The Ohio Supreme Court on Wednesday handed down a decision that checks a referendum on the Mosier law passed by the legislature providing for electing delegates to a state convention to ratify repeal of the 18th amendment.

Petitions had been circulated by the Ohio Anti-Saloon League for a referendum but the court held the Mosier law was not subject to a referendum. The same court also held a referendum could not be held on the bills transferring the motor vehicle division from the secretary of state to the State Highway Department, and the one providing for a road patrol. Both are pet measures of Gov. White passed for purely political purposes. The latter will in time add five or six hundred more politicians to the state pay roll. Several hundred motorcycles and automobiles must be provided by the state and operated at the expense of the state.

Temperance Notes

Sponsored by Cedarville W. C. T. U.

An Associated Press dispatch dated Washington, May 24, shows the Administration has not been misrepresented as to its purpose to use the tax-bluebook (or the tax-bait) to compel repeal. Postmaster General Farley, cabinet man-of-all-work, is represented as saying that unless the Eighteenth amendment were written off the books every income taxpayer will have to hand the government $8 to $10 out of every $100 he earns this year. The dispatch continues:

In the matter of increased taxes, word came directly from the White House early in the day that President Roosevelt intended automatically to end the far-reaching new levies now under consideration in the House as soon as the Eighteenth amendment is repealed.

Mr. Farley's words today came during a discussion of a disclosure made last night that the full weight of the Administration would be thrown behind the movement to ratify the prohibition repeal amendment, through the writing of letters to Democratic workers throughout the nation, urging such a step.

Not since the moral darkness of the last century, when human slavery enjoyed Federal protection and was defended by statesmen on economic grounds, has an American administration touched such a low level on any question involving moral principle. That the secular press makes no comment on this policy is perhaps significant. Wet as it is, the press hesitates to endorse the White House theory of buying repeal votes.—The Christian Advocate.

Beer has acquired a new social standing. Last year it was voted down by a substantial majority. Recently the same men, representing the same constituencies, voting on the same chemical concoction, reversed themselves and gave it a good majority. The difference is that they are no longer talking about beer or voting on it.

For beer is no longer beer. It is man's moral hope, his way to temperance and law observance. It is the hope of our government. We must have it to balance the budget. It is our economic hope. Without it business will fail and the farmer will starve. So we are told, not once but many times. Beer is no longer beer. It is a kind of patent medicine that will cure all ills, a sort of a gigantic gold brick of immense value.

Those who propose that we elevate our morals, fill our factories, feed our hungry, pay our bills, take up our mortgages, cure our discouragements, conquer our fears and underwrite our statesmen and public institutions with beer, are offering the public a giant swindle, the biggest swindle that has ever been offered to any people anywhere. The times call for wise and honest leadership, not for swindlers and demagogues. Marketing a great gold-brick just at this time is not the way out of our confusion. It is to be hoped that there is enough sound judgment abroad in the land to keep us from a permanent enrollment in the sucker class.

FARMERS TOLD HOW U. S. WHEAT PLAN WILL WORK

The wheat conference held at the Ohio State University this week brought out many important questions and answers of interest to wheat farmers. W. L. Wilson, chief of the wheat production control administration, presented the plan to the group.

About 75 agricultural extension executives of 15 wheat-producing states east of the Mississippi did the questioning. The weight of educating wheat farmers to the plan will fall on the agricultural extension service.

Six principal objections likely to be raised by farmers were answered by Mr. Wilson. An answer to the consumer's objection that the plan will raise prices also was recited.

About 30 cents a bushel

Under the production control plan, farmers who contract to reduce their wheat acreage by a fraction soon to be set at something less than 5-8 during the years 1934 and 1935 will be paid about 30 cents a bushel above the selling price of their wheat, two-thirds this fall and the remainder next spring. Other compensating payments will be made on the next two year crops at a figure intended to raise the buying power of wheat to its pre-war average.

If all Ohio wheat growers contract with the government, it will mean about 6,000,000 to Ohio farmers this spring and fall. A typical Ohio farmer who has been raising 800 bushels of wheat will reduce to about 500 and receive $100 in September and $50 in the spring from the government. This money is received from a wheat processing tax.

Some of the objections raised by farmers and the answers which evolved from Tuesday's discussion follow:

1: Will it interfere with our marketing?

Answer—The farmer is free to sell his wheat to whom, where and at what price he pleases.

2: Will our administration of the plan in the counties be so expensive as to eat up the compensation payment due us?

Answer—In major wheat counties where production is over 200,000 bushels the cost of administration will be less than two cents a bushel.

3: Will the plan interfere with our crop rotation program and what can we raise on the reduced acreage?

Answer—Elasticity in the plan will function. Different acreage of wheat may differ in the next two years as long as the total is not over the quota. However, no crop which contributes to a national surplus may be raised on the reduced acres. Soil building and erosion preventing crops are recommended.

4: If wheat soars, won't the farmer stand to make more money by raising a full crop instead of limiting it?

Answer—Wheat may not soar. If it does commodity prices also will rise and the spread between commodity prices and the buying power of wheat will continue. If so the compensating payment will increase because it is regulated not by the price of wheat but by its buying power. Furthermore, if wheat prices soar and there is no limitation of acreage, overproduction will result and prices fall again.

5: Will it interfere with the farmer's liberty?

Answer—Co-operation with the plan is entirely voluntary. Farmers who co-operate, however, must stick by their contract. Otherwise compensation payments made to them will be considered loans and payable to the government.

6: Isn't it wrong to limit production when there is so much want?

Answer—It is the practice of every industry to limit the production to meet the profitable demand.

OHIO EMPLOYMENT FOR JUNE SHOWS 9.4 PER CENT GAIN

Advancing 9.4 per cent over May, Ohio industrial employment in June was also 9.2 per cent above that of June 1932, according to Ohio State University's bureau of business research. This was the first time since the decline began that employment has equalled or exceeded the total for the same month of the previous year.

The June increase came in the wake of a 5 per cent gain in April and one of 6.4 per cent in May, bringing the total increase for the three months period to 22.7 per cent, according to bureau figures. Manufacturing and construction employment have been primarily responsible for the increase, non-manufacturing work also improving, but at a less rapid pace.

"All the 11 major manufacturing groups of industries contributed to the June increase, the increases ranging from 1.2 per cent in the chemical industry to 15.1 per cent in textiles," the bureau report says. In all but two of the major manufacturing groups—chemicals and food products—June employment exceeded that of June, 1932.

All of the eight chief cities in the state, except Columbus, experienced substantial employment gains in June, according to reports received by the university research staff. In Columbus there was a very slight decline, no greater, however, than the average June decline of the past five years.

June gains for other chief cities ranged from 4.5 per cent in Cincinnati to 20.1 per cent in Dayton, and amounted to 6 per cent in Cleveland, 11.3 per cent in Stark county (Canton), 12.9 per cent in Akron and Youngstown, and 13.5 per cent in Toledo.

Local wheat buyers were offering one dollar a bushel both Wednesday and Thursday. The wheat generally is of extra fine quality. Some wheat is being sold but from reports we get a large quantity is being stored, holding for a higher market.

OHIO STATE OPENS TWO YEAR COURSE IN AGRICULTURE

Offering two year courses in agriculture and home economics, Ohio State University's new junior school of agriculture will start with the fall quarter.

Described by Dean Cunningham as a "short cut to special training," the junior school offers courses in agronomy (soils and crops); agricultural engineering; animal husbandry; branching in the second year into either dairy production or a continuation of animal husbandry; horticulture, branching in the second year into floriculture or pomology and vegetable gardening; poultry husbandry; general agriculture; and home economics.

Four year courses leading to degrees in agriculture and home economics will be continued, according to Dean John F. Cunningham. Certificates will be granted those completing the junior school work. Entrance requirements are the same for both two and four year courses.

"Students in the junior school courses will receive training of the same degree and quality as that given in the regular four year courses," Dean Cunningham says. "They will be taught by the same staff members and the same class rooms and laboratories will be used."

"The junior school courses are planned for adjustment in all reasonable situations. In case a student is not able to attend regularly for six quarters each year until he has credit for 100 hours of work, when the certificate will be awarded."

Six delegates from the Greene County 4-H Club membership will go into camp at the annual district camp at Clifton Monday. In the list are Lucile Guy, Ross Twp.; Ardis Gardner, Bath; Dorothy Galloway, Cedarville; Lucille Raynor, Beaver Creek; Donald Foster, and Oscar Fulkerson, Xenia Twp.; Jean Haines, Caesar Creek Twp. and Carol Koogler, Bath Twp.

50 DENOMINATIONS REPRESENTED ON OHIO STATE CAMPUS

Nine of every 10 students at Ohio State University last year had church affiliations, a religious census compiled by Miss Edith Cockins, registrar, reveals. Fifty creeds are represented. Only 1909 of approximately 14,000 students on the campus during the year gave no religious choice. Only one student listed himself as an atheist and one other as an agnostic.

Methodists continued to head the list with 3702, according to Miss Cockins' report. Next came Presbyterians, with 1687. Catholics had 943, Jewish 301, Lutherans 759, Baptists 532, Congregational 489, Episcopal 442, Non-Sectarian 304, Church of Christ 272, Christian 263, United Brethren 53, and Reformed 211.

Other groups with their numbers on the campus are: United Protestant 159, Evangelical 152, Protestant 144, Christian Science 135, Community 84, Brethren 67, Methodist Protestant 66, Friends 65, African Methodist 42, Disciples 38, Christian Congregational 35, Unitarian 34, Mennonites 21, Reformed Jewish 22, Evangelical Protestant 18, Universalist 17, Southern Methodist 15, Latter Day Saints 14, Greek Orthodox 12, Seventh Day Adventist 11, Church of God 9, Independent Protestant 7, Nazarene 6, International Bible Students 5, Union 5, Federated 4, New Thought 4, Dunkard 3, and Zionist 3.

Two students each were affiliated with the Russian Orthodox and Serbian Orthodox beliefs, and one each expressed preference for the Swedenborgian, Swedish Mission, Advent Christian, and Buddhist faiths. Religious work among students is carried on through the University Religious Council and the campus Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Many denominations maintain university pastors and several have student social centers, where student activities, including dramatics, music and recreation, are carried on under church auspices.
